was quite good, but the supply of plant since was too large and the number of select edifferings too small.

The Eastern business has been rather restricted because the bulk of Eastern offerings of the better class was light, but such as were available sold actively at the prevailing prices of last week. The Eastern buying contingent was larger than usual, being re-enforced by several expect operators, who, however, bought limitedly on account of the sparseness of suitable offerings.

Misses' Cloth Cosume. Consisting of Misses' Waist with Yoke, No. 2437, and Misses' Five-Gored Gathered Skirt. No. 2505—70 dress occasions smooth-faced cloths are preferred to rough and fancy materials this season. They have a satin finish and high luster that is very rich. As flustrated the costume is developed in bright red broadcloth, with black velvet trimmings.

The waist is mounted on a glove-fitted, featherboned lining that closes at the center back. Full fronts and backs are gathered at the top and arranged on the lining at a yoke depth. The waist blouses well all around over a deep girdle of velvet.

A heart-shaped yoke is included in the neck seam, with a standing collar. It extends over the shoulders giving them a modified droop, and has a deep point back and front.

The sleeves are mounted on a fitted lining, Rows of shirring at the elbow divide the puff into two portions, the upper one being larger than the lower. If preferred this chirring may be emitted and only one puff used.

The skirt is shaped with velvet to a cuff depth. Full puffs are gathered at the top and fall in long, soft folds, concealing the seams. The closing is made invisibly at the center back Bands of velvet are used as foot trimming.

Dresses in this style may be made of ladlest cloth, cashmere, veile, serge or ladder thas closing is the style may be made of laddest cloth, cashmere, veile, serge or ladder the servers.
